

CAREERS IN LANGUAGE & COMMUNICATION

2017 - 2018

Thinking about pursuing a career where communication and language play an important role? Don't know how to leverage your skills?

UCLA Humanities students are often especially qualified for opportunities that require knowledge in another language and depend upon excellent communication skills. Meet UCLA alumni who work in the areas of translation and interpretation, voice technology, consulting, and non-profit. Our panelists will share their experiences and answer questions about how they were able to leverage their communication and language skills in their respective professions.

Wednesday, April 25th | 314 Royce Hall | 4:00 pm - 5:30 pm

SPEAKERS

Iliana Garcia
Translator and Interpreter

Lisa Rutta
Voice Technology, SoundHound Inc.

Matt Hartman
Speechwriter, Communications Strategist and Social Impact Consultant

Juliana Scott
Non-Profit Management with Deaf and Hard of Hearing

Megha Sundara | Moderator
Professor of Linguistics

images in order of list of speakers*